DECEMBER 2009 PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Welcome, club members

Hurricane season came and went leaving us unscathed. Now we begin the winter season of low light but fine fishing. My personal experience has been that the best fishing of the year takes place when the water temperature is between 70 and 80 degrees. That includes now!

We give thanks to Jack Hexter for his fine descriptions of an African Safari with a bit of fishing thrown in. Thanks also to Craig Smothers for an excellent demonstration on tying the Bay Whistler fly. See tying instructions on pg. 8. Our Big Gun Shootout was a big success with 23 avid fly casters competing for the five traditional trophies. Special thanks to Chris Homer for organizing the event, a rather complex job. See complete results on page 7.

Be sure to pay your dues so you can continue to participate in the many benefits of the club. Dues may be paid at the meeting or by submitting your check along with the form on page 9.

Also, see page 3 for the two fine events that we will have in December.

TIPS FOR TBFFC – No. 18

From Pat Damico

Casting Tips for TBFFC: 1

This is the first of a new series of casting tips by Capt. Pat Damico, FFF master casting Instructor—Ed.

When watching a great caster do you have difficulty separating substance from style? This was one of my biggest problems. Substance could be defined as what the caster is doing that is essential to the cast and style as his way of getting there. Some examples of style are: gripping the rod with index finger on top, thumb to the side and thumb on top. A square stance, casting foot forward and line hand foot forward are also examples of style. The essentials of making the cast are practiced by good casters and do not vary as they are all needed to achieve excellent results. There are five essentials:

1. There must be a PAUSE at the end of each stroke which varies with the amount of line beyond the rod tip.
2. SLACK LINE must be kept to a minimum.
3. The rod tip must travel in a STRAIGHT LINE PATH.
4. The SIZE OF THE CASTING ARC must vary with the length of line past the rod tip.
5. POWER must be applied in the proper amount at the proper place in the stroke.

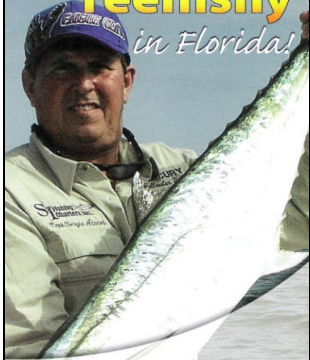

Our next tip will deal with each essential, discuss how it affects our cast and how to apply a solution.

Dan Lagace has contributed 100 casting tips to our newsletter, a monumental achievement. How many of us has he helped with our casting problems not only with these tips but also with his one-on-one personal attention? We have spent many enjoyable hours together. He continues to amaze me with his uncanny ability to instantly analyze a problem and then correct it with multiple solutions in his easy going manner. I'd like to offer my efforts to contribute to our excellent newsletter on his behalf. He has become a wonderful friend and will always be considered my "Coach."

Member Photos, December 2009

John and Joan Willis caught some small but nice freshwater specimens while casting some small Clouser minnows supplied by Jeff Janecek

Greg Peterson has continued his successful fishing odyssey with:

- a tarpon caught during a night fishing trip with Robert Gaulin in October,
- his first Bonefish, on a trip to the Keys with Capt. Bryon Chamberlin during late September,
- and even a salmon in the Muskegon River, while attending an early October class reunion in Michigan.

Member Photos, Continued

Complete Big Gun Shootout Results for 2009.

Thanks and congratulations to everybody who competed in our Big Gun event held at Picnic Island Park, November 15, 2009. Scores are rising steadily over time, and this year, for the first time, 13 competitors made it to the final shootout by achieving a cast of at least 100 feet during the regular competition.

Special thanks to those who helped with the setup and/or judged the events.

Individuals who should be singled out for recognition include Chris Homer, who organized this very successful event, Alligator Bob Young who prepared another outstanding lunch, Walt Durkin for supplying the soft drinks, Pat Damico for tying up the special casting "flies" used by all competitors, and Nick Colantonio for again loaning us his setups for the various casting stations.

Here are the trophy winners

1. The Winning Team of Leigh West, Nick Angelo, and Bryon Chamberlin achieved an unusually high team total of 818 points.
2. The Top Individual High Score of 290 points, just 10 shy of perfect, was achieved by Dave Olsen
3. Longest Cast in the Shootout was also achieved by Dave Olsen, who squeaked out a 3-inch longer cast than Cas Summers.

Complete results are tabulated in the table below, with trophy winners highlighted in yellow. Remember, while it's nice to get a trophy, the main purpose of the event is to allow each competitor to track his/her progress through the years.

FLY OF THE MONTH

Bay Whistler

As Tied by Craig Smothers

I hate tying Seaducers. They never turn out. The back end is easy enough, but the collar is too short, too coarse, or doesn't look quite right. And then, try and find the correct collar feathers. Finally you get a fairly good looking one. You put it in your fly box. You open the box later, and it's mashed beyond recognition...

Seaducers are great for fishing slowly. The best part is if you see/feel a short strike—just stop stripping. The fly suspends in the water.

The whistler started as a tarpon fly. It was a full tied seaducer with a bead chain eye. The name came from the sound the large bead chain eye made when it was cast. It was made to suspend in the water. It was also made to push water so the fish could feel the fly if the visibility was poor.

The Bay Whistler is a variation on both the whistler and the seaducer. It has a synthetic (durable) collar material and mini lead eyes. It can be fished quickly, or dragged along the bottom. It doesn't quite suspend, but it sinks slowly and horizontally like a true seaducer. It's quick to tie, and uses easily acquired materials.

HOOK: Mustad 34007 size #2 or #4

EYES: Mini (4/32) lead eyes

THREAD: Flymaster 6/0 in chartreuse or white

TAIL: two matched pairs of chartreuse grizzly or white neck feathers, splayed

FLASH: chartreuse or opal Flashabou Mirage Accent

BODY: chartreuse, white, or light dun Body Fur

COLLAR: Red Fleximent, Loon water base Hard Head Finish

- 1) With the hook point down in the vice, thread back from the hook eye to the beginning of the bend in the hook. Tie in the two sets of splayed neck feathers on the top of the hook. Tie in three to six strands of Flashabou outside the feathers. Glue with Fleximent.
- 2) Tie in the Body Fur just in front of the feathers. Make sure that the Body Fur is oriented towards the rear of the hook. Begin palmering the material forward taking care not to cross over the previous wraps. Use caution not to twist the belt of Body Fur as you go, it will get unruly. I stroke the material towards the back as I palmer it. About four to five wraps will do the trick. Thread wrap the material down to the hook in front and trim off the excess. Glue with Fleximent.
- 3) Tie in the mini lead eyes on the top of the hook shank. Thread forward to the hook eye and whip finish. Soak the thread wraps and the lead eyes with Fleximent.
- 4) Tie the metallic red thread in just behind the lead eyes. Whip finish, and reglue with Fleximent.
- 5) Allow to dry, and then apply a coat of Hard Head Fly Finish—it looks just like epoxy without turning it.

Craig Smothers

Fishing Report and Forecast

"What a great time to go fishing!"

The last week in October Denise Bruner fly fished at Crystal River. Lots of wind on Saturday but on Friday she caught mackerel that for some reason jumped out of the water to draw attention to themselves and to the birds. Beside the mackerel she caught black sea bass, trout, lady fish, bluefish and 18" grouper. "That," says Denise "was a lot of fun."

Early in November member John Willis fished with Jeff Janecek at a private pond of Fort King road. Caught a nice bass on a chartreuse wooly-bugger that he tied.

Fresh water fishing has been good for Greg Stepanski lately. Bass, large blue gills and a large bowfin were taken on a small chartreuse clouser with a deer hair nymph trailer on a sink tip line. Location unknown.

Second week of November I fished with Bob Hinton at Cockroach Bay. It was too windy to go in the flats and to use fly rods. So we decided to use spinning outfits and Bob caught his first slam. Snook, Redfish and Trout all under size but never the less a slam.

Wes Sobczak and Frank Rhodes caught snook and trout around the lights in St. Pete early Tuesday, November 17. Frank (aka Perils of Pauline) went for a 1am swim also.
